PLEDGES HIMSELF TO BUFFALO MEN.

Pleads for the Punishment of Grafters and Crooks.

Roosevelt Guest of the Ellicott Club at Breakfast.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt pledged himself to the men of Buffalo today to help them and all sincere citizens to fight crookedness wherever it was found. "I'll help you just as I did in the past," he said, speaking to the Ellicott Club, whose guest he was at breakfast an hour after sunrise. He made a plea for the punishment of crooked and grafting public officials and the election of honest ones in their places, a process of gradually but permanently raising the morality of political and business life, and said he thought it his duty to hunt out crooks and especially crooks in his own party. "I believe in party government," he said, "but the moment a question of honesty is involved I recognize no party distinction, or if I do make any, it is that it is a little more my business to put the grafter and crook out of public life if he belongs to my party than if to another. This attitude demands that one's attention be fixed, not on financial or social status, but on conduct."

Nearly 400 members of the club and other citizens representing leading professional and business interests and a wide variety of political affiliations awaited Mr. Roosevelt's coming from the New York Central Station, where he arrived from Utica at 6:20 in his private car Republic, attached to a regular train. The club's rooms are high up in one of the city's downtown business blocks. As the ex-President entered he was cheered and "America" was sung, with the backing of a regimental band. Breakfast was expeditiously served as there was less than an hour before Mr. Roosevelt's departure for Chicago. The presence of Fred Greiner, Republican leader of Erie county, was generally commented upon in connection with the recent meeting of the Republican State Convention at which Erie county members were conspicuous for their absence. Mr. Greiner had subsequently stated that the local members were not present because they had no inkling that a temporary chairman for the coming Republican State Convention at Saratoga was to be named.

Among those who got an especially hearty greeting from Mr. Roosevelt was Tony Gavin, a Buffalo policeman, formerly a rough rider. The colonel shook his hand across the table and said some pleasant things.

Mr. Roosevelt made good use of the 15 minutes available for his remarks. The men who heard him, who noted his earnestness in dealing with the subject of crookedness and grafting, and who frequently broke in with sharp applause, had in mind his expressions within the past few days to the effect that "They will have all the fight they want."

Mr. Roosevelt first dwelt upon a subject of particular local interest, the necessity of preserving unpolluted "the wonderful fresh water supply of the great lakes." "We claim to be civilized people," he said, "and as such we ought to be able to dispose of our sewage without putting it into our drinking water. State and nation must combine in preventing further contamination and in making the purity of lake water as absolute as possible. So, also in the field of morals, public and domestic," he continued. "There must be no pollution at the sources." This led naturally to his grindy earnest expression of intention to seek out and bring to accounting grafters, big and little.

"District, however," he said, "financiers who can only see crookedness in grafting small politicians and grafting leaders; distrust also those who can see it only in big financiers. But you must attack a man because he is crooked. If poor and crooked, attack him. If rich and crooked, attack him. In fact, attack the rich crook a trifle stronger. Yes, I will put it—attack him very strongly."

Colonel Roosevelt in his speech began with a reference to the city as "a pretty wide-awake town." Alluding to the early hours, he continued: "I will plunge at once into a subject that I know is of the most interest to you and ought to be of interest to all of our people, and that is: Keeping the fresh water supply of the Great Lakes unpolluted. We claim to be a civilized people, and civilized people ought to know how to dispose of the sewage in some other way than putting it into the drinking water. We need action by both the state and the nation to put a complete stop to the pollution of the Great Lakes' action by the state so far as our own boundary is concerned and action of the nation because other states besides our own are interested.

"Our people must realize from now on that in addition to grasping after new fields of conquest they have got to take good care of the things that have been conquered that they have got to attend to a number of things they have left unattended. Too much in the past, it has been the habit of our country to let any man do what he wanted, without regard to other men. We have got to that state where we must consider the interest of all. We have got to do more in such manner as to keep unpolluted the Great Lakes, the most wonderful body of fresh water in the country.

"We must keep the water supply unpolluted and to do that you must see that it is not polluted in the source. In the same way we must keep the standard of public honesty and public decency high and you cannot do that unless the individual citizen in the first place, himself, keeps it high.

"I believe in party government but the moment a question of honesty is involved I recognize no party distinction. If I make any distinction it is that it is a little my business to hunt out of public life a crook who claims to belong to my party than if he claims to belong to another.

"Distrust the financier who cannot see crookedness among financiers, but only among the labor leaders, and distrust the labor leader who can see crookedness only when it is by the big financier. Attack a man because he is crooked. If he is a poor man and crooked, attack him. If he is a rich man and crooked, attack him.

"Personally, I would attack the rich man who is crooked just a little stronger, because crookedness is just

New Bedford Contractors Have Strike in Hand.

Bricklayers Show Sympathy by Remaining Idle.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 25.—At a meeting of the contractors in the Board of Trade room it was unanimously voted not to make any concessions to the strikers. The contractors stated after the meeting that they feel that they have the situation well in hand and will soon be able to resume work on all their jobs without difficulty.

A conference arranged between the contractors and strike leaders by Chief of Police Mason, yesterday afternoon proved abortive because although four of the contractors and the strike leaders were present several of the contractors on the big mill jobs, the Nelid Mill and Sharp Mill in particular, were not present.

The strikers were willing to take 30 cents and possibly 25 for hod carriers and 22 2-9 cents an hour for laborers. The contractors at the meeting said they would not even give this price.

Few bricklayers went to work at the various mills this morning, showing their sympathy for the strike of the laborers, in this way. At the H. P. Converse Company's plant there was not a bricklayer at work while but eight reported at the Sharp mill.

MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED UP SOON.

Forest Employes Among the Bodies Found at Avery.

Appalling Loss of Life of Fire Fighters in Idaho.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 25.—The mystery of the bodies that are being found in the St. Joe country of Idaho, probably will be cleared up today when the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound runs its first passenger train to Avery. One hundred and six men living in the St. Joe valley, are missing. Twenty two bodies were found scattered over an area of over a mile and it was assumed they were forest employes, Supervisor Weigle including them in his list of dead employes. Last night, however, he declared they were not rangers.

Adding to the number of dead rangers, 74, the 44 bodies found near Avery, the 10 Japanese who perished near Avery, and the various known dead in Washington, Idaho, and Montana, the total is 142. This is without taking into account the 155 rangers imprisoned on the headwaters of the St. Joe. The appalling loss of life among the forest employes is taking the heart out of the surviving foresters and an order has been issued not to risk life to save timber. The little fires are being extinguished but the great fires, to fight which might result in more loss of life, will be allowed to burn themselves out or until the rains extinguish them. In the Coeur D'Alene mining country, the fires have exhausted their fuel, as also in the Pend D'Reille valley. In the Clearwater country and the thickest timber of the Coeur D'Alene national forest, however, the flames are active as ever.

No lumberman or forester will give an estimate of the timber losses. It is believed, however, that the present fires are the most expensive the United States has ever known. An expert railroad builder estimates the loss of the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound road at $2,500,000. The Spokane Cham-

"WAR TO THE LAST DITCH."

Roosevelt Says "Old Guard" Will Have "All the Fight They Want."

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—War to the last ditch was declared tonight by Theodore Roosevelt upon the "Old Guard" in New York state. "They will have all the fight they want" was the way the colonel put it in a pronouncement here.

That was his answer to the tactics of the state machine in selecting Vice President Sherman for temporary chairman of the coming convention in the face of Mr. Roosevelt's expressed determination to sound the campaign key-note at the party gathering. The colonel's declaration lost nothing in dramatic value from the fact that it was made in Utica, the home city of Vice President Sherman, the man whose aspirations ran counter to Roosevelt's plans in the councils of the state committee.

A statement by Mr. Barnes was read to the colonel to the effect that there would be a fight in the convention against its domination by Mr. Roosevelt.

"They will have all the fight they want," replied Mr. Roosevelt. "I am going to the convention only because I feel that the public interests, the interests of the people of New York, demand that the Republican party be given a chance to stand squarely and uncompromisingly for clean, decent, honest politics.

"I go to the convention to make the speech exactly as it has been originally planned; and while I hope there will be enough good sense to prevent any one opposing the principles for which I shall stand, yet if they do oppose them then it is their own affair, and so far as I am concerned the issue shall be absolutely clean cut."

The colonel said he was going into the fight with his eyes open, and with full realization of the fact that he might not be successful. He said he felt that, on account of the attitude of members of the organization, he was at perfect liberty to carry on uncompromising warfare.

Some of Colonel Roosevelt's closest friends in the state have told him they were doubtful as to the outcome and he has replied that he himself felt that, even though he should be successful in the state convention at Saratoga and such a platform as he desired should be adopted, the result of the election would be in grave doubt. The colonel has told his friends that he did not feel sure that the Roosevelt-Hughes forces would receive unqualified support from the organization at the polls. Colonel Roosevelt's endorsement of State Senator Frederick Davenport yesterday was the first step in the fight which he expects to carry on from now until election time. He decided today to go to the State Fair in Syracuse September 17 to speak, and at that time may talk politics. He probably will make several other speeches both before and after the state convention.

Graft Returns to New Bedford After Absence of 22 Months.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug 24.—Whaling bark Platina, bringing into port 2,050 barrels of sperm oil, arrived today, after an absence from New Bedford of more than 22 months. Captain MacKenzie reported that one man of the crew died during the voyage, James Buckley succumbing to tuberculosis off Port Alexander, Africa, last spring. Joseph John, the ship's cook, although seriously ill with the same disease, was up and able to land at the conclusion of the voyage, and was removed to the Marine hospital at Vineyard Haven.

PARK LAND ADOPTED.

the old one. The committee knew the station is an obstruction, but the ferry company did not act right. It would not sell land which could be used to improve the approach. It desired the naval landing encroached upon, and the committee thought the naval landing should be respected more than the ferry landing, for one is improved and the other not. If the ferry company would do what is right there would be room for two wagons to pass, and that would be sufficient. The capacity of the ferryboat is 18 automobiles. The city needs a station house and needs one quickly, and this is the site. The city should not be expected to abandon property worth $10,000 to help a concern which does not help itself.

J. B. Sullivan said the proposal of Dr. Squire would cost $75,000 and was not to be entertained. If the Council would carefully consider the report of the committee he thought it would see things differently.

Dr. Brackett was willing to have his resolution laid on the table until the report of the committee had been considered. Dr. Ramsay wished to add that all plans be submitted to the Council, so that it should judge. Mr. Tanner said there was only one set of plans. There had been sketches and the committee took the one which seemed best and had plans drawn. If the Council desired several other sets of plans, it would cost considerable. Dr. Brackett had confidence in the committee in regard to plans. His resolution was laid on the table.

Then, on motion of Mr. W. W. Sherman, the report of the committee on police station was taken from the table.

J. B. Sullivan said he supported the report in every way. There had been talk about the Jamestown Ferry Company. The committee plan would give the ferry company all the room it needed; it would be sufficient for the New England Navigation Company. The ferry company has land which it rents to the Adams Express Company. If it had this land it would have more room for ferry purposes. If the city had 30 or 40 feet of this land it could erect a police station which would not block the ferry. It is absolutely necessary for the city to have a police station and it would be found, as the committee had found, that there is no better place for it than the present site.

Is the city of Newport to be expected to help out the Jamestown Ferry Company when the company takes no steps to help itself? He thought not. Now the Adams Express is moving and the ferry company has no longer a tenant for that structure next the police station, and proposes to tear it down and desires the city to tear down the police station. This station is the best looking building on the square, and if removed it would open a curious showing to the harbor front. The committee offered to meet the ferry company halfway and so arrange plans as to give a sufficient roadway, but the company desires the station swept away so that its rear land may become front land. This is not fair or reasonable.

A roadway 16 feet wide could be made at the station. The width of Market square where it enters Thames street is only 19 feet, and that is the width of Thames street. If the entire square were open there would not be a proper exit to Thames street, and neither would Thames street be in condition to handle the traffic from the enlarged square. Thames street should be protected from such a rush of traffic. He had investigated, and found, as Mr. Tanner had stated, that the capacity of the ferryboat is some 18 automobiles and these go on and come off one at a time, and do not need as much room as some seem to think. He believed the ferry company should act first, and then if the city should do something the company will be in position to ask for aid.

Mr. Sullivan's remarks were applauded.

Mr. Franklin said there was considerable talk about the ferry company; he would talk about Newport. For many years there has been talk of a change of location for the station. He saw that the new building is not to have any cellar at the new Young Men's Christian Association building, not only is there a cellar, but a sub-cellar. He noticed that there are accommodations for only 23 men to sleep. This he thought insufficient. Newport is a small city, but local conditions call for a larger police force. There are many streets which receive no protection now, which should be protected, and provision should be made in building the new station for the growth of years to come. In his opinion the building will not be sufficient for the needs of the city in a few years, and it should be located where a proper building can be properly constructed.

Mr. Tanner said this was legitimate criticism of the plans and what the committee desired. He thought that what the mayor called for was a new station rather than a new site. The 23 officers provided for are half the night force; the day force does not need sleeping accommodations. This force was considered ample for all emergencies for years. In regard to the cellar, he said none is needed under the conditions planned for. A suitable foundation would keep out all water and the heating apparatus would be properly placed. The present buildings is too small; it is kept as clean as possible, but is limited. The committee has planned for a handsome three-story building which will meet all demands for years to come.

PARK LAND ACCEPTED.

He referred to sites proposed for the station, and considered and discarded by the committee, giving the reasons. The location recommended is the best the committee could do; there seemed to be no other place at all suitable. The architect has had experience, having designed perhaps 400 buildings in Newport, including some handsome public buildings. It could not be said that he lacks experience.

Mr. Casey said the Committee of Twenty-Five had considered the change of fire station No. 1 to a police station, but there was objection to the site from the neighbors and the School Committee. It did seem that the present site is the best, all things considered. No man wishes to have the police station close to him.

The resolutions accompanying the report of the committee were then taken up, the talk on the station being apparently at an end. The one providing for the issuance of $35,000, in serial bonds, to meet the cost of the new station, was first and the date of the issue of the bonds was fixed at January 1, 1911. Mr. Sherman asked what right the Council had to issue bonds and the chairman said he understood that the Council had that right. J. B. Sullivan said the Council had the right, subject to the referendum. Mr. Tanner said the Board of Aldermen would need to apply to the legislature for an act to enable the Board to condemn certain land for the station and this would delay action until the legislature meets in January.

T. P. Peckham said he found a good deal of opposition to the Market Square site among the business men; still, the figures given by Mr. Sullivan showed there is not the congestion suggested.

Mr. Tanner said Mr. Peckham was like the others; they objected to this location, but offer no substitute.

Finally the resolution providing for the issuance of bonds for the new station was put on its passage. The vote was doubted and a standing vote was taken. The resolution was lost, 47 ayes, to 62 nays.

This, in the opinion of the chairman, left the report of the committee still on the table.

Dr. Brackett called up his resolution for additional sites. He said perhaps the Council would do what the committee had done, but he thought it would be well if additional sites were given the Council for consideration. The Council voted to ask the committee on police station to report additional sites for consideration.

Petitions of G. R. Fearing and G. R. Fearing, Jr., executors of the estate of Amey Sheldon; of William B. Henderson, and of Thomas G. Hazard, executor of the estate of Emily L. Hazard, for remission or reduction of taxes were referred to the tax assessors.

The communication from the Board of Firewards to the Board of Aldermen, received by the latter August 11 and referred to the Council was next considered. It asked for an extra appropriation of $750 for a new boiler for steamer 7 and the accompanying resolution making an appropriation of $750 was passed without a sign of disapproval.

A peculiar petition was received from Robert Ives Gammell and Robert W. Goelet. To improve the fire protection in the vicinity of their residences they had the Water Works lay a new main and establish a new hydrant, which they had paid for, there being no appropriation available for that purpose. Then they learned, from the Water Works Company that action on the part of the city, authorizing the location of such a hydrant by the chief engineer, was necessary. The petitioners asked for such authorization, and it was voted to grant it.

The commissioners of the Henderson Home sent an invitation to the mayor, the Board of Aldermen and the Representative Council to inspect the home Monday, August 29, from 8 to 10 p. m., and the invitation was accepted.

For the committee on re-districting, Mr. Levy presented the following report:

"To the Honorable Representative Council of the City of Newport:

"The committee appointed by your honorable body by virtue of the accompanying resolution, passed on the sixteenth day of March, A. D. 1910, respectfully begs leave to report as follows:

"1—Your committee is of the opinion that the interests of the city of Newport will best be served by dividing the city into five wards, each ward to be comprised within the area and to be bounded by the lines of the several districts adopted by the General Assembly of the state of Rhode Island for the election of members to the General Assembly from the city of Newport.

"2—Your committee further finds and assigns as reasons why the ward lines should conform to the district lines, among other things, as follows:

"(a) That if the present ward lines are maintained five additional voting places will be required in the elections held for state and municipal officers.

"(b) That five additional wardens, five additional clerks and 30 additional supervisors will be required to carry on the several elections.

"(c) That great confusion will be caused in conducting elections and much annoyance will be suffered by the electors in casting their ballots for the several state and municipal officers.

"(d) That if the present ward lines are maintained some of the voting districts will contain probably less than 100 electors.

"(e) That many electors will find it necessary at one general election to cast their ballots for certain state and municipal officers in one voting booth and to cast their ballots for representatives to the General Assembly in another.

"(f) That to maintain the present ward lines will require the preparation of 15 different voting lists, with each set sub-divided into three sections.

"(g) That in the opinion of your committee it will be almost impossible under the present system to perform the work required by law in preparing for the several elections, and a board of canvassers or board of registration may be necessary.

"(h) That the expense of printing, and the other costs incidental to conducting the several elections, will greatly exceed the present cost thereof.

"In view of the above facts your committee respectfully recommends the passage of the accompanying ordinance.

"Annexed hereto is a map showing, in red, the lines of the present wards, and in black, the lines of the several districts hereinbefore referred to, established by the General Assembly.

"Your committee is further of the opinion that if the ward lines are made to conform to the said district lines it will be unnecessary to adopt any changes in the charter relating thereto."

When the report had been read J. B. Sullivan moved to lay the resolutions over to the next meeting, under the rule, so that all the members may have time to consider them. Mr. Levy thought it important to have action taken at once, and repeated what was contained in the report. Voters would be obliged to vote for governor and state officers in one place and for representative in another. This would make great confusion. J. B. Sullivan said the ward and district lines do not conform in other places, and if people could vote in New York and Providence he felt sure they could in Newport. It is an important matter to members of the Representative Council, this change in ward lines, and it seemed to him that all should have opportunity to act on it. This did not furnish part of the regular business, and members did not anticipate its coming up. Suppose it should cost a little more for the next election; that is not important. W. W. Sherman thought no consideration should be given those who had not attended the meeting.

A motion to adjourn was made and declared lost. A rising vote was taken and the motion to adjourn was declared lost, 48 ayes to 55 nayes.

The city clerk, in answer to a question, said that if the ward lines are not changed it will be the duty of the Board of Aldermen, acting as canvassers, to arrange for voting precincts before September 10. The additional precincts would practically double the cost of the state election.

Mr. Levy said no member of the Council would be legislated out of office if the ward lines are changed to conform to the district lines.

A motion to postpone action to the next meeting was lost, 37 to 67, on a rising vote. J. B. Sullivan called attention to the fact that the vote showed no quorum. A roll-call was taken, and the doorkeeper was directed to close the doors and prevent members from escaping. The roll-call showed 98 members present, not a quorum.

After some talk about when next to meet, it was voted to meet a week from that time, which will be Wednesday, August 31, at 8:30, and the meeting soon adjourned.

THE POWER OF THE LAW.

Fallacy in the Common Saying That People Cannot Be Made Good by Legislative Act.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Dear Sir: How many times we hear it stated that we cannot make men good by acts of the legislature, but have we stopped to consider the fallacy hidden in that specious statement? Why do we legislate at all? Why does law exist, without which society would fall into anarchy? Gladstone says "law ought to make it easy for men to do right and hard for them to do wrong. The basal instinct of the community, which controls the state in making laws, is that the conduct of the citizens can be regulated by law and thus, negatively, compelled to act rightly.

We have a remarkable illustration of the power of law to compel certain conditions of character in the working of the English budget for 1909-10, passed under great stress of opposition. In that budget one of the most fiercely contested taxes was the increased tax upon liquor. At the time some men went so far as to say that the budget would have passed with scarcely any opposition had it not been for the whiskey duties. After a year of this increased taxation, what are the results? In Scotland there has been a decrease of 33 per cent in convictions for drunkenness. In the city of Edinburgh alone there was a decrease of 2,000 in the gaol admissions for that one offence. In Ireland the same results, a vast decrease in the number of convictions. In England the convictions lessened by 18,000, a very surprising number. Ten million gallons of highly alcoholized liquor were withdrawn from consumption in consequence of the high taxation. As the chancellor says: "Who can measure the benefits in improved health, in increased efficiency, in the comfort and happiness of the homes of the community." I am glad the chancellor has maintained these taxes in spite of the tremendous pressure from the English brewing interests and the Irish Nationalists. Let us get rid of that devil's lie that we cannot help men to be good by the wise and just application of sane laws. We cannot change their moral natures, it is true, but we can help them tremendously by taking away from them the temptation of passionate excess.

I have hanging upon the walls of my study the laws affecting our saloons sent out by the liquor commissioners last winter. As far as I can see they are all broken with daring impunity. My friend, Captain Bibber of the steamboat line from New Bedford, had to stand on the gangway of his steamer the other Sunday in order to prevent liquor from being smuggled on board. It can be purchased all over the city Sunday as well as week-days, in licensed, and I am afraid in many unlicensed places. Some good people from one of my former parishes were directed by their hackman to dine at a hotel on Bellevue avenue. They stated to my that they were never in such a place in their lives. I knew what they meant. It is one of those places which possess a United States liquor license but which have no license from the city.

If the police commissioners of the city of Providence can enforce the Sunday law among 350,000 people, is it impossible to enforce it in this smaller city? Why should the 39 saloon keepers of this city have an immunity not granted to any other class of the community? It makes me sick and angry when Sunday after Sunday I see the violations of this law by the hideous drunkenness that abounds. If it were clearly understood that a breach of the liquor law would result in the loss of the license, every item of the law would be instantly obeyed to the letter. Why cannot we get together, as Mayor Gaynor says, and see what can be done? The saloon keepers and their political henchmen are making this beautiful city one of the most drink-sodden communities in New England and it is a shame and disgrace to us that matters social and political are so largely left in their hands. Apply the law and protect the 95 per cent of the drinkers who seem to have no power to protect themselves.

Joseph Cooper.

ALMY WINS THIS WEEK'S RIFLE MATCH.

The weekly rifle match of the Providence Revolver Club was held Wednesday evening at Almy's range in Portsmouth and brought together nine shooters. The scores were not so high in the last few matches, but were good considering the conditions. Almy put up a good 452, under trying conditions. Coggeshall, who has two wins on the cup, would have won with one more, but three in succession was too much for him and he took second place with a score of 447. Brooks put up 446, while Peckham made 439. Thurston, with a good start at 230 on the first round and a good score up to his eighth shot, and the match well in hand, scored a miss and dropped back with the other "also rans" and scored 437. Biesel followed with 433, and the two new men, Barry and Arnold, put up 378 and 375 respectively. The scores:

W. Almy	224	228	452
F. Coggeshall	229	218	447
P. Brooks	224	222	446
J. Peckham	222	217	439
W. Thurston	230	207	437
J. Biesel	211	222	433
J. Barry	190	188	378
C. Arnold	193	182	375

Persian Bordered Foulard and a New Turban.

The Persian, or paisley patterns are much worn, and these Oriental patterns may be worn next winter. This, dark blue satin foulard has a Persian border in rich red and yellows, these colors being in subdued shades and not in the crude primary effects. The turban is one that sets well down around the hair and has a trimming that seems to pull it backward on the head. Pompoms are very smart and this white straw turban has two immense pompoms as its only trimming.

VACATION REVERIES.

[Lippincott's.]

I gathered a shell where the ocean's swell
Laved the all-restraining shore,
And I thought of the tenant's short career,
Now ended forevermore,
Ah, my sorrow of spirit who can tell
As I looked on that empty peanut shell!

I gazed where the light of the sun shone bright
On the landscape green and fair,
And I watched a cloud as it floated past
Like a pall upon the air.
Ah me, how over my spirit broke
The gloom of that cloud of tobacco smoke!

I stood in the shade of the forest glade
By the side of an ancient stump,
And I mused how the woodman left it there,
And I swallowed a rising lump
As I thought how the woodman's heart was sore
As he left that stump of his last cigar.

Pietro had drifted down to Florida and was working with a gang at railroad construction. He had been told to beware of rattlesnakes, but assured that they would always give the warning rattle before striking.

One hot day he was eating his noon luncheon on a pine log when he saw a big rattler coiled a few feet in front of him. He eyed the serpent and began to lift his legs over the log. He had barely got them out of the way when the snake's fangs hit the bark beneath him.

"Son of a gun!" yelled Pietro. "Why you no ringa da bell?"—[Everybody's Magazine.

"OFF AGIN, ON AGIN."

The news from Nicaragua recalls the famous message from the section boss to the division superintendent regarding a train: "Off agin, on agin, gone agin, Flanagin." The revolution is all over as between Madriz and Estrada, but there is imminent danger of fighting between Estrada and Chamoro, his chief of staff, who has some idea that the presidency would about fit him.

The presidency is being passed around like an old hat. Madriz, finding it necessary to leave Managua in great haste, and being unable to take the office with him, transferred it to Jose Estrada, who assigned it to his brother, Juan Estrada, leader of the revolutionists. The plotting was not suppressed by this passing about of the chief office of government and there were serious indications that the revolutionists would divide and fight each other for the proceeds of the victory over Madriz.

These whirligigs of Central American warfare are difficult to follow and there is no doubt that the revolutions revolve. It isn't long since Estrada was so nearly triumphant that he demanded recognition from the United States. His envoy had hardly reached Washington when things turned halfway round and Madriz was in full possession and Estrada nearly disappeared. Now another half revolution has tossed Madriz out of the country and Estrada is the government, unless ousted by his chief of staff.

The oddest part of it all is that these triumphant revolutionists are furious at the Americans. This government denounced Zelaya and bullied Madriz, and was thought by many persons of some knowledge of international law to be too sympathetic with Estrada, and now that Estrada has won we are hated by his people with especial vindictiveness. Perhaps it is not strange, but the usual result of interfering in other people's quarrels. While we did not quite intervene in Estrada's interest we came pretty near it, but disappointed Estrada by not helping him at the critical time. We made ourselves disliked by both sides.

THE STATE CONSERVATION COMMISSION.

The special message of Governor Pothier to the legislature, urging the appointment of a conservation commission for the purpose of ascertaining the actual conditions in this state regarding idle farm lands, and to report to the next General Assembly what those conditions are, so that it may be learned what is needed in order to make these lands marketable and profitable to the state, is in the right direction. It is a recognition of what The News said a few days ago, in calling attention to the fact that there is need of conservation in Rhode Island and that this subject has a more intimate connection with this state and a closer relation to the people here than most persons have thought. It is the first step in this state in the great country-wide movement for the conservation of all unused resources and their development for the enrichment of the state and the benefit of mankind. It should be productive of much good within the limitations set by the resolution creating the commission and will undoubtedly lead to still further and more important steps in line with what is being done in other commonwealths for the preservation and development of natural resources.

To be sure, it is only a beginning of what ought to be a strong and energetic movement in this state, and should include much more than the idle farm lands. It is a good beginning, however, and along the lines of most importance in this section of the country. There are in Rhode Island a sufficient number of unutilized farms to warrant investigation of the reasons why they are not cultivated and efforts to bring them under development, and this commission will have as its particular duty during the next few months the collection of information of that sort. That is logically the first step, to learn what the conditions are, and so be prepared for wise and proper action. This commission is to be the scout, blazing the way for those who are to follow for the purpose of developing the unused land of the state. It is to spy out the land and report what has been found, and then it will remain for the state through the legislature and the proper departments to act upon that information.

It is practically certain, however, that when this work has once been undertaken it will be found that there are other resources in the state which are not being used and developed as they might be and as they should be for the best interests of the people. It will be a natural proceeding to pass from attention to farm lands to consideration of water power, forests and other resources which ought to bring a revenue to the state and be utilized for the benefit of the people. It will be found, indeed, that conservation means more and more directly to this commonwealth and those who live within its borders than most persons have any idea, and that there is much more to be gained by local conservation than many had dreamed. It is well that the work is to be started, for it was time something was done along this line. The resources of the state have been too long neglected or developed without consistent and definite plan, and the movement now begun is sure to broaden as it proceeds.

Not a little will depend for its success upon the kind of men who are appointed on this commission. The work will not be difficult, but there will be need of those who are familiar with farm lands, with real estate values of every sort, and with the conditions of country life, as well as with a knowledge of what conservation means and a long vision into the future to perceive what will be the best method of accomplishing the object of the appointment of the commission. That there are in the state men of just the kind needed is not to be doubted, and they are the ones who should be drafted into service to do this preliminary work. It may later be found desirable to use them to a still further extent in carrying out the plans devised, but at the start at least they should be secured as members of this commission, so that the initial work of the movement may be assured of success.

SIBLEY'S WEAK HEART.

A few weeks ago the country was more or less entertained to learn that Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania had spent $42,500 in the primary election to secure the nomination for Congress. Recently he announced that his heart would not permit him to go into the campaign, although the election is a mere form after the nomination has been secured. This sensation, however, lasted less than 24 hours, for it was soon made public that before he withdrew from the Congressional campaign he had been arrested for bribery of voters.

Sibley has had a variegated political experience. He has been in Congress. He has trained with the Republicans, the Democrats and the Silverites. He is an oil man, and of course has plenty of money to spend, but there are reports that the Standard Oil backs him in his political ventures. Two years ago his name appeared conspicuously in that batch of Standard Oil correspondents which had the effect of retiring Foraker from the Senate.

It is reported of Sibley that he used to secure votes by buying farm produce at fancy prices. In his recent primary election his disbursements amounted to more than $4 for every vote cast, or counted, at the election. A large part of this money is said to have been distributed in the form of $2 bills wrapped around cigars, which were enclosed in silk covers.

The fact that as soon as Sibley was arrested he withdrew from the Congressional campaign looks as though he thought his manipulation of the primaries, where far more votes are said to have been counted than were cast, would not look well in public or promote his election to Congress. It is evident that his methods are to be investigated just the same, though it is possible that the arrest was designed to frighten him off the track and give some one else a chance. His methods are a little too spectacular and expensive to become general, but it may be useful as a warning to make an example of him.

The attempt of Wall Street brokers to collect approximately $500,000 from the state of New York on account of over-charges under the transfer tax law received a death blow when the attorney general submitted a decision to the state controller, in which he holds that the claims should have been presented by the actual claimants—that is, the customers who paid the tax, rather than the brokers. The attorney general does not say the claims will be paid if presented by the customers themselves, but plainly intimates that the state feels secure in holding the tax.

Japan was considerate of the Korean emperor's wishes in announcing the day when she will make his country a part of the Japanese empire. The emperor will have been on the throne four years next Saturday, and wished to complete four full years before he was dethroned, so Japan kindly agreed to delay the promulgation of the decree ending the independent existence of the little kingdom.

Again it is made evident that a majority of the members of the Representative Council do not wish to erect a new police station on the site of the old building on Market square. The Council is believed to represent quite accurately the feeling in the community in this matter.

The Representative Council, sooner or later, will doubtless adopt the ordinance changing the ward lines to correspond with the Assembly district lines, and the sooner the better if the Board of Aldermen is to be able to do its work in time.

Providence is planning to give the delegates to the Deeper Waterways Convention a right good time, but will have difficulty in affording more enjoyment to the guests than Newport gave hers last week.

Colonel Roosevelt says he will give the "Old Guard" all they want at the New York Republican convention and it looks very much as if he was about to put on his fighting uniform again.

Mayor Gaynor of New York has sufficiently recovered to take three square meals a day. That is enough for most men, well or otherwise.

It was 84 degrees in the shade in Providence Wednesday and the coolest day of August. By the way, August has been a comfortable month.

THE SEPTEMBER MAGAZINES.

The September number of Popular Mechanics contains 229 articles and 256 illustrations, 15 of the letter being page views or groups. "The Army of the People," by James R. Quirk, discusses the recent military tournament in Chicago and gives some of General Frederick Dent Grant's emphatic opinions regarding the American soldier. Apropos of the tournament, H. H. Windsor makes interesting observations in his editorial. Other subjects discussed by Mr. Windsor are "Common Sense Methods in the Public School;" the probability of an aerial passenger service, in view of the recent "Zeppelin" disaster; the result of the sane Fourth movement, and the superior comforts of the large ocean liner over the smaller.

A prophecy of a locomotive weighing 500 tons is made by E. E. Norris, who discusses the difficulties to be overcome before the realization of the monster; a page illustration gives a clear idea of the architectural beauty of New York's new municipal building, now under construction; "Welding the Alliance between Chemistry and Industry," by Harry F. Kohr, tells to what advantage to the small manufacturer a department of industrial chemistry has been maintained by the University of Kansas. Other articles treat of widely varying subjects, in a concise non-technical manner.

The Shop Notes department for September contains 51 articles and 44 illustrations, and Amateur Mechanics 11 articles and 20 illustrations, every article "written so you can understand it."

The Metropolitan Magazine makes its September issue a fiction number, as the magazine appears in mid-August. Gouverneur Morris leads the list with "The Wise Miss Carrington," an original story of Newport life. An adventure story called "The Money Maker" is contributed by a new writer. Henry Edward Rood's "Johnny Staples and the Suffragists" is laughable. On the same order is "Marriage as a Fine Art," in which Eugene Wood is at his best. Beverly, the nation's summer capital, is one of the society colonies seasonably described in "A Social Pilgrimage."

Base ball, the one live hot-weather topic, is again featured, with an article by "Hughie" Jennings, the Detroit manager, on "Who Will Win the Pennant in the American League?" The critical review of the Taft administration is continued in "Spending the People's Money," an account of the economies in progress in the various departments at Washington. Cleveland Moffett makes good reading of the Hagenbeck wild animal farm at Hamburg, which is illustrated. Numerous pictures and the illustrated departments give to the number variety.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Rev. C. E. Delamater of the Methodist Episcopal Church left today for Bethlehem, N. H., for a five weeks' vacation. Mrs. Delamater will spend the greater part of the time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Billings, at West Bridgewater, Mass. The son, Edgar Delamater, is at Plymouth, Mass., for the summer, with his grandparents.

Worthy Master N. Horace Peckham and Mrs. Peckham of Aquidneck Grange, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hughes and several men of the Grange are attending the State Grange field day at Essex Grove, near East Greenwich, today. Quidnesset is the entertaining grange.

The weekly meetings of the Epworth League are to be omitted until the latter part of September.

Miss Nellie R. Peckham is visiting in Brooklyn.

Miss Flora L. Phinney has accepted the position of teacher at the Peabody school. She is the daughter of Mrs. Lucy M. Phinney, a teacher of long experience in the schools of Portsmouth, and has herself been teaching for many years at Bourne, Mass.

FINANCIALLY SPEAKING.

James A. Patten, apropos of a failure which had an ugly look, said recently in New York:

"That failure reminds me of Brownlow's boy.

"'Pop,' said Brownlow's boy, 'I've been reading all them modern society novels by Robert W. Potts about marriage bein' a failure, and I want to know what it means.'

"'Run along and play,' said Old Brownlow. 'You're too young, sonny, to understand such delicate matters.'

"'No, pop; I'm geetin' a big boy now,' said the lad, 'and I insist on knowin' all about this here social question. Tell me, is marriage, or ain't it, a failure?'

"The old man, after a moment's thought replied:

"'Well, if you marry a rich enough womin—a Gould or a Harriman—then marriage is as good as a failure.'"

MIXED FOURSOMES FIRST ROUND

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Cruiser Squadron May Anchor in Providence Harbor.

Motor Boats Charged With Violating the Law—Distribution of Sample Medicines.

The cruiser squadron, under command of Rear Admiral S. A. Staunton, which is to be a feature during the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association convention next week, may be anchored in Providence harbor instead of remaining off Pawtuxet, as had at first been thought necessary. Harbor Master Maguire believes he will be able to find room for the three big cruisers in the harbor, so that they will be conspicuous figures in the Providence celebration, instead of being moored at the marine gateway to the city. Rear Admiral Staunton is of the opinion that it would be impracticable to bring the Tennessee, Montana and North Carolina up even as far as Pawtuxet, and believes the vessels should anchor at Newport. Harbor Master Maguire, however, was in consultation with the authorities at Newport Wednesday. He explained that, as the ships are more than 500 feet long, and draw 25 feet of water, this length would completely block the narrow channel of Pawtuxet and cause entanglement in the schedules of the regular steamers running up and down Narragansett bay. He suggested that the vessels anchor in the harbor, one on the west side of the channel, which is 1,600 feet wide, and where there is plenty of room. He offered to have such vessels as may be occupying the mooring ground on the west side moved over to the east side, which would still leave a wide fairway down through mid-channel for the regular commerce of the port.

When Collector of Customs Gardiner, of the Providence district, arrived home from a 10 days' vacation Wednesday, he found among other items of business awaiting his action 75 complaints against motor boat owners, charged with violations of the law regarding the operation of the boats in navigable waters. Acting on orders from Washington, Collector Gardiner established a patrol of the waters of his district, with instructions to examine all motor boats navigating the Seekonk river, the Providence river and the upper waters of Narragansett bay and its estuaries. The custom house boat began the patrol of the river and bay August 13 and since that time a considerable number of boats have been inspected. The new law under which the inspections are made, among other requirements demands that the proper lights be carried, sufficient life preservers provided, bells, foghorns and whistles installed, and also lays particular stress on proper facilities for extinguishing fire on board. Many of the boats inspected were found deficient in some of these respects. Collector Gardiner will take up the matter with General Wilson, United States Attorney, in the near future, when arrangements will be made for the disposition of the cases. The patrol will be continued day and night for an indefinite period.

In view of the fact that many sample medicines are being distributed to houses throughout the state and are being collected and at times eaten by children "for fun," Dr. Gardner T. Swarts, secretary of the State Board of Health, is contemplating asking for an amendment to the laws to forbid such distribution. Dr. Swarts has received many reports and complaints recently. Peddlers of patent medicines of all kinds, from pain killers to cancer cures, have been in the habit, Dr. Swarts says, of going through cities and towns distributing free samples of medicines. These samples are placed on the doorsteps. Children of the neighborhood collect all the sample packages of bottles they can find and in many cases taste the contents, or eat them entirely, if they happened to be sweetened pills or liquid. Several cases of illness from this source have been reported to Dr. Swarts. One of the medicines was found to contain cocaine. In this instance, a physician saw the man distributing the stuff, and the children following behind collecting it. He telephoned to Dr. Swarts who in turn notified the police. A patrolman stopped the distribution. Dr. Swarts points out that a city ordinance prohibits the distribution of things "on the streets," but does not forbid the placing of them on doorsteps or in private yards and on walks.

The Alabama Coon of Stoughton, Mass., won the big New England states veteran firemen's muster at Fall River, within two minutes after the opening shot of the tournament was fired. Foreman Tilden saw his opportunity just as his men were ready for the first play and gave the word. The water was caught by a favorable fluke of the wind and was carried down the board to 234 feet 7¾ inches. This hung up a hot pace for the remaining 31 machines entered to play to and stood as the first prize winner of the day. The Hancock, No. 1, of Brookton, a sister tub of the Coon, captured second prize with 221 feet 3½ inches; Hingham Vet. of Hingham, third, with 213 feet 1¼ inches, and Enterprise of Campello, fourth, with 204 feet 8 inches. The Narragansett of Riverside headed the Rhode Island contingent, breaking its own muster record and joining the 200 class for the first time in its history. Although it played 203 feet 3 inches it was just outside of the money. However, the members felt well satisfied with the outcome of the day and are eager for the Rhode Island State League muster at Manville on Labor day. Not an accident marred the musters, although the Gaspee of Providence, was badly wrecked. The engine platform constructed under the direction of the local tournament committee was not sufficiently supported with cross joists and was raised too far from the ground, so that when the heavy machines began to pump they danced up and down as though on springs. The old Gaspee is one of the heaviest machines in the league and when she pulled on the platform one of the boards gave way and let the wheels through.

All records were broken by the attendance at the celebration of Foster's seventh annual Old Home day, and incidentally the one hundred and twenty-ninth birthday of that town, Wednesday. "All roads lead to Foster Centre" was the slogan in the western part of the state, and with bright sunny skies and the thermometer soaring well up in the eighties people from far and near began pouring on the grounds from early morn. Well into the afternoon more than 3,500 had packed the grounds. The program arranged for the occasion included speeches by Governor Pothier, Congressman Sheffield, Speaker Burchard, Rev. Lester Howard, D. D., Rev. Gideon A. Burgess, D. D., and United States Marshal Daniel R. Ballou. The old town house in "Foster Centre" proved a Mecca for the people of the countryside from far and near. Carriages and wagons of all descriptions arrived at the grounds during the forenoon and automobiles bearing Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut registry numbers were in evidence on all sides.

A wedding, with which were connected unusual circumstances, took place at the parsonage of the Riverside Congregational Church Monday evening, witnessed by only a few persons. Esaias P. Andrews, 56 years of age, of Riverside, was married to Celinda Andrews, also of that place, Rev. Frank Louis Bristol performing the ceremony. The couple were married for the first time about 34 years ago, and lived together 17 years. At the end of that period they decided that it was time to part and a divorce followed. They lived apart 17 years and recently came to the conclusion that the old love should be renewed and hastened to the office of the town clerk, where the marriage license was secured. The couple are now living in Riverside.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

The best method of cleaning scale out of a radiator is to fill the system with a solution of strong soda water, and then run the engine for 15 minutes. Drain off all of the soda water and refill with fresh water and run the engine again for 10 or 15 minutes. Drain this water off and radiator, water jackets, etc., will be clean. During the operation do not race the engine.

If you have oil lamps for your machine and they insist on going out, no matter what you do to prevent it, don't neglect to see if you have stifled the light by not giving it the proper amount of air. Ventilation holes are, of course, provided to give it enough air, but these sometimes get stopped and will naturally smother the light.

In order to start the motor on the spark it should be speeded up just before stopping by opening the throttle wide. Then if the spark is cut off a full charge is left in a cylinder to be ignited when another start is to be made.

If the radiator is cold and the water jackets extremely hot the water is not circulating, owing to a pump stoppage or an air lock. Over-heating often causes pre-ignition.

STILL THE CHAMPION.

Larned Successfully Defends His Title Against Bundy.

Californian Puts Up a Strong and Plucky Game, But Lacks Staying Power.

William A. Larned successfully defended his honors as champion lawn tennis player of the United States in a hard-fought match with T. C. Bundy of California, at the conclusion of the national tournament at the Casino this morning. He won the match on his merits, though Bundy put up a strong game, forcing his opponent to his best and outplaying him in several particulars. Bundy was indeed no mean opponent, and if he had had staying powers equal to those of Larned the result would have been prolonged, and possibly different. At the end Bundy was completely fagged and saw that it was useless to continue the fight, virtually giving the last game away.

Larned played his usual game. At times he was brilliant and at others seemed to be inferior to his opponent in many of the finer points of the game. He, however, won his three sets with almost ridiculous ease, as compared with the two taken by Bundy. In the third he showed at his best and fairly ran away with the set, allowing Bundy only eight points, while he took the set by securing 24. Bundy was not easily beaten, showing remarkable preseverance in returning Larned's drives and at times forcing his opponent so that he made many outs and nets. On earned points neither player had much the advantage of the other.

Larned was clearly superior in the first set and Bundy won only the second game, on his own service, which at times seemed to give Larned much concern and was only with difficulty handled. The games in this set were close and in the sixth deuce was called three times before Larned won on an out and net by Bundy on hard drives. The points were as follows:

Larned,	4 1 4 5 4 7 4	—29
Bundy,	0 4 1 2 1 5 0	—14

The second set was entirely different tennis. Bundy struck his stride and made Larned work for every point. It was difficult for the older player to place the ball so Bundy could not return and many of the returns were sensational. There were not a great many earned points, but the point was decided on an out or a net after long rallies and very difficult returns. The audience did not really wake up until this set, but here it had plenty of opportunity to applaud and was not at all meagre with it, as fine return after return was made. Bundy was fairly equal to Larned on places in this set. The points were as follows:

Bundy,	5 4 5 2 4 2 0 4 4 1 5 4	—40
Larned,	3 2 7 4 2 4 4 2 1 4 3 2	—38

Larned went after the third set with a rush and carried the rush through to the end, securing game after game in rapid succession, allowing Bundy only two points at the most in any. It was the old brilliant Larned, and against the onrush of his strokes there was no check. His drives had vim and strength, and there was at no time any doubt of his superiority. In that form Larned is invincible, and if he could hold it throughout a match there would never be any doubt of the championship. The points in this set:

Larned,	4 4 4 4 4 4	—24
Bundy,	2 2 1 0 2 1	—8

After the usual 10 minutes rest play was resumed and everybody thought that Larned would settle things, but they were mistaken. Bundy came back with even more of his careful skill and persistency than he had shown earlier, and Larned had more difficulty in checking him. He took the first game on Larned's service, then Larned won on Bundy's service. Bundy took the next two, making the score 2 to 1 in Bundy's favor. Then the play alternated, each winning on his service until 6-all had been called. Then Larned lost a love game on his service and Bundy pulled out the set on his own service, the score of games being 8-6. The points:

Bundy,	5 5 6 4 0 1 4 2 4 2 4 1 4 4	—46
Larned,	3 7 4 2 4 4 1 4 2 4 1 4 0 2	—42

The fifth set was much like the third, although Bundy won one game, the first, on his service. Larned played with more vim and Bundy was evidently tiring. The latter made a stand in the third game, but lost it after deuce had been called one. In the fifth game also he made a stand, winning three points after Larned had taken two. Larned, however, brought the game to deuce and won, on an out and a net by Bundy, who was unable to handle the swift play across the net. Larned won on his own service on superior placing and on his own service. Bundy threw the next game away, evidently having become physically exhausted. The points were:

Larned	2 4 5 4 5 5 4	—29
Bundy	4 1 3 1 3 2 1	—15

The score of the match was as follows:

Challenge Match, Singles Championship.

W. A. Larned beat T. C. Bundy, 6-1, 6-0, 6-8, 6-1.

The crowd which witnessed the match was probably the largest ever in the Casino grounds. The grand stand was a solid mass of humanity, without a single seat unoccupied. On the other sides of the courts were rows and rows of spectators. It seemed from the court tennis gallery that there must have been ten or a dozen rows on the north side and west end, while all the space at the east end was packed. A large number could see bits of the play, and all sorts of high-er seats were rigged to afford a better view of the game.

The boys about the Casino must have searched every nook and corner for barrels and boxes, chairs, tables and step ladders, and these were arranged in all sorts of combination for standing room. On one table was placed a chair and a spectator saw the game from this. A wheelbarrow and a large packing case and on this case were two women. Women also stood on stepladders, on chairs piled on top of other chairs, and many of the arrangements reminded one of the acrobatic feats of certain teams at Freebody Park. There were a few families, but most of the lofty seats held their own and their occupants throughout the match.

The interest was not all in the grounds, for housetops overlooking the Casino had a few enthusiastic spectators and wagons on Freebody street drawn up against the back fence enabled a number to see the games. The court tennis gallery and the south end of the piazza were also crowded as never before.

Mrs. Nathaniel C. Thayer today wore a coat suit of white serge and a small white hat with wings. Miss Sally Thayer had a white linen coat suit and a pale blue hat with pink roses. Mrs. Herman Oelrichs's blue chiffon gown over white satin was worn with a white hat with white plumes de coq. Miss Edith Wetmore was wearing a white satin foulard trimmed in black and a black hat with pink gladioli. Mrs. Newton Adams wore a Catawba [illegible] a black hat with pond lilies. Miss Mabel Gerry wore bright blue chiffon cloth braided in blue and made with a bobbie skirt, and a small black hat with white aigrettes.

Miss Angelica Gerry's white broadcloth coat suit was worn with a small black hat with white lilacs. Mrs. Joseph R. Dilworth wore linen pongee and a dark blue hat with a corn-colored bird of paradise. Mrs. Henry Clews was wearing white chiffon cloth over white satin and a white chiffon coat bordered with white satin. A white hat faced in black and worn with a white lace bow completed an attractive costume. Mrs. W. Goadby Loew wore ecru batiste with trimmings of black velvet and an ecru hat with black aigrettes.

Mrs. George Grenville Merrill was wearing black crepe de chine and an old rose Persian scarf. A small leghorn hat trimmed with black was worn. Mrs. Willard Brown's white eyelet linen was worn with a purple hat with silk trimmings. Mrs. Leonard Thomas was wearing a gown of white embroidered chiffon with a large pale blue bow at the back and a white chip hat with lavender velvet and pink roses. Mrs. John Jacob Astor wore dark blue messaline with Persian trimmings and a large blue hat with blue plumage and a pink rose. Mrs. J. Norman de R. Whitehouse wore tan etamine made with a bobbie skirt, and a large dark blue hat with tan flowers.

Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas wore cream braided chiffon and a violet girdle. Her cream hat was worn with violet plumes and a violet parasol was carried. Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James was wearing a pale blue serge coat suit and a small blue hat with aigrettes. Mrs. Conde Nast wore a pink linen coat suit with a bobbie skirt, and a black hat with champagne plumes. Mrs. Robert Goelet wore a white serge coat suit and a black hat with black and white plumes de coq. Miss May Van Alen was wearing an Irish lace robe and a white chip hat with Alice blue plumes.

William A. Larned has now won the national lawn tennis championship six times—in 1901 and 1902, and in four successive years since 1907. As long ago as 1892 he was runner-up in the national tournament, being defeated in the finals by F. H. Hovey. In 1894, 1895 and 1896 he was again runner-up, losing to R. D. Wrenn, F. H. Hovey and R. D. Wrenn. In 1900 and 1901 he took the all-comers' prize, being beaten in the former year by M. D. Whitman and gaining the championship the next summer on Whitman's default. In 1902 he successfully defended the championship against H. L. Doherty, but in 1903 lost to H. L. Doherty. He won the all-comers' match in 1907 against Robert Leroy, and again gained the championship by Clothier's default. In 1908 he successfully defended his championship honors against B. C. Wright, and in 1909 against W. J. Clothier.

This year he wins against Thomas C. Bundy, and having done so three years in succession becomes the possessor of the handsome silver cup offered by the national association as emblematic of the championship, and also secures the large silver bowl given by the Newport Casino to the player winning it two years. It is doubtful if he again defends the championship, although it is possible that he will be one of the American team to play in Australia for the Davis international cup, with the hope of topping his tennis career by bringing back to this country the trophy which the Doherty's carried to England some years ago.

Bundy has played an excellent game throughout the tournament, having, however, an easy time in his earlier matches, his victories being over P. S. P. Randolph, H. Nickerson, Stanley Henshaw, G. T. Thomas, Jr., W. B. Craigin, Jr., F. C. Colston and B. C. Wright. He won his spurs in the all-comers' match with Wright and showed by today's work that his victory over that player was not a mere fluke. His game against Larned showed conclusively that he is a tennis player to be reckoned with in the future. He will take to California the handsome silver urn given by the national association as the first prize in the tournament, for which 181 players were entered.

PLEDGES HIMSELF TO BUFFALO MEN.

a trifle more infamous in him. But I would attack the other man very strongly. Often you will find that men have betrayed the interests of the people by doing what is improper for some big corporation. In that case try to get at them and try to get at the big corporation and all those responsible for its management and I will help you in every way that I can. I have done it in the past. I will do it just as we did in connection with the sugar trust, just as we did against the men in such cases.

"Do not let the man feel that he is to be pitied rather than blamed for yielding to the temptation offered by the big corporation that tries to get him to go wrong. My experience is that the kind of man who will go wrong when the big corporation tempts him is a crook from the start, and goes wrong because he is glad to go wrong. My experience is that such a man will be just as quick to blackmail a corporation as he will to take money corruptly. If he is crooked he will show his crookedness as quickly on one side as he will on the other, and of the people fail to condemn the man who is crooked and who will blackmail a corporation, they will have themselves to thank when the blackmailer turns around and becomes a tool of the corporation which he will do when it is for his interest to do so.

"You are not going to get honesty in a public servant on behalf of the people unless you insist on that man showing honesty to all with whom he is brought into contact. "I would fight for the rights of the big man just as I would for the rights of the small man, and for the rights of all the people, if they want to be honest to the people themselves."

The gathering of people at the station had been considerably augmented during the hour. Standing on the rear platform of his car, Mr. Roosevelt waved his hat as the train pulled out westward shortly after 7:30 a. m.

ADMIRES RAILROAD MEN.

Roosevelt Speaks to Large Gathering from Car at Dunkirk.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 25.—When Colonel Roosevelt appeared on the rear end platform at Dunkirk, N. Y., he was met by a large gathering of railroad men. Near his car an engine was blowing off steam. "I can't talk against that" protested Colonel Roosevelt, nodding toward the locomotive. The man on the locomotive said he could not stop the noise and the colonel attempted to deliver a brief address.

"I have always admired the railroad men because they have certain qualities I like to think of as typical of Americans. They know how to work. They know how to obey orders and how to net. Each one has individuality. The average American in our political, industrial and social life must show just these traits.

The noise of the steaming locomotive made speaking difficult, for the colonel who again protested "It is really an outrage" he declared. "I cannot talk to that engine," when he told the crowd that an engine was "the only thing he could not talk against." And as the train moved off, as some men shouted "Do them up in the convention, Ted" Colonel Roosevelt smiled broadly but made no reply.

Fully 5,000 people greeted Colonel Roosevelt when his special arrived in Erie at 8:28 this morning. The colonel spoke briefly, chiefly along the lines of the earlier speech he made at Buffalo regarding pure water in the great lake cities.

He was met at Dunkirk this morning by a reception committeee from Erie, consisting of Congressman Arthur L. Bates, Frank D. Shultz, president of the Chamber of Commerce and William B. Trask. Congressman Bates was a member of the lower house during the seven and a half years that Roosevelt was President and a long consultation was held in the private car as the train rushed through the northwestern Pennsylvanian grape belt.

"Hello, Teddy," was heard from the sea of humanity that lined the station platform when the train pulled into Erie and it was one minutes before the colonel's voice could be heard. In an undertond to Congressman Bates, who was on the rear platform, the African hunter said, "I used to think it lowered my dignity to have them call me Teddy, but, do you know, I am getting to like it now?"

HIGH PRICES FOR FISH.

All Rated at Record Figures and a Good Time to Sell, If One Only Had Them.

It looks as though records were going by the board almost daily at the usual haunt of the Fish Buyers' Association on Long wharf, but it will take something to break the one made Wednesday. The Gray Brothers landed 21 barrels of weakfish and 5 of butters, and W. E. Gray four barrels of weakfish and two of butters. Gray Brothers shipped their fish on commission, but the other fare was sold right on the dock. When one buyer offered $18 a barrel for the weakfish he started to put them up. Some one advanced the price to $18.50, and began to continue the work of putting them up. Gradually the figure advanced until $20 a barrel for the weakfish was offered. George Lewis took them and handed Mr. Gray a check for $100 even for the six barrels of both kinds of fish.

It was the last of things. These were the last weakfish in pounds up the bay and it was the last chance any one will have to buy fish until new catches are made.

F. W. Lawton had one barrel of mixed fish and schooner Freedom had 1,700 mackerel. Captain John Brownell had been depended upon for some butterfish, but all he landed were two lone fish, horse mackerel. They had the trap all to themselves, but made quite a showing, for one weighed about 650 and the other about 500 pounds. They will bring some money, but not so much proportionately as weakfish at $20 a barrel.

C. A. Easterbrooks had 13 barrels of butterfish Wednesday and, like all fish, they are worth money. Eleven cents a pound was quoted today which would mean nearly $25 a barrel. Even whiting are quoted at $5 a barrel. It is a great time to sell fish, if only there were some fish to sell.

WHEN KNOWLEDGE MEETS THEORY.

[Everybody's Magazine.]

A story that has done service in political campaigns to illustrate supposed dilemmas of the opposition will likely be revived in the approaching political "heated term."

Away back, when herds of buffalo grazed along the foothills of the Western mountains, two hardy prospectors fell in with a big bison that seemed to have been separated from his kind and run amuck. One of the prospectors took to the branches of a tree and the other dived into a cave. The buffalo bellowed at the entrance to the cavern and then turned toward the tree. Out came the man from the cave, and the buffalo took after him again. The man made another dive for the cave. After this had been repeated several times, the man in the tree called to his comrade, who was trembling at the mouth of the cavern:

"Stay in the cave, you idiot!"

"You don't know nothing about this bole," bawled the other. "There's a bear in it!"

RACING RESUMED.

Weekly Contest of Newport Yacht Club Boats Won by the Vesper II in Steady Breeze.

The weekly races of the Newport Yacht Club, which had been interrupted by fleet week, were resumed Wednesday afternoon under fine conditions. There was a steady wholesail breeze from the southwest and it held true and the boats had a good contest. The time since the last race and the fact that the days are rapidly growing shorter caused it to be finished in darkness, but the wind held to the end.

The Vesper II and Indian had an even struggle to St. Patrick's buoy, which was rounded together. On the beat to the track in Brenton's cove the boats had all the wind they needed and lay over under the fresh blow. The Vesper opened quite a lead on the Indian on the beat down. The mark in the cove had evidently been carried away by a steam yacht, for Captain Plummer of the Vesper could not find it and the Whitney houseboat was used as a turning mark. The times, the start, being at 6:27:

	Finish	Time
Vesper II, Plummer	7:16:20	:49:20
Indian, Arnold	7:16:55	:49:55
Tabou, Savery	7:18:07	:51:07
Breeze, Beck	7:28:00	1:01:00

The motor boats did not appear for a race. The owners were apparently still suffering from the excitement of fleet week and too tired to go out.

RETAIN THE POLO CUP.

Gladstones Successfully Defend the Trophy Against the New Haven Second Team.

In an interesting polo match at the Point Judith grounds Wednesday, the Gladstones successfully defended the Gladstone cup—winning by three-quarters of a goal against New Haven second, the score standing 13¼ to 12½. This cup is offered to be played for by teams of 16 goals handicap and is held by the Gladstones until won by another team.

The New Haven four played a remarkable game, as it received but five goals handicap. Ramsey and Rathborne played a fast game for New Haven, making several fine goals. Rich did good work for the Gladstones. Drury received a bad fall early in the game but recovered and resumed play. The New Haven four led at the start of the last period, but the Gladstones played fast polo and Loew and Balding each handed goals, winning the game.

A four-period special match was also played, between Ranelagh, the English team, and Point Judith, in which the Englishmen were easy visitors. Mr. Grenfell played a strong game, making all but one of the goals, while Lord Grosvenor supported him finely. Lord Rockavage did fine back work and Mr. Gill rendered valuable assistance.

The line-up for the first match was as follows:

Gladstone—H. Rich, H. Drury, W. Balding, W. G. Loew.

New Haven Second—C. Rathbone, C. D. Morgan, Jr., C. C. Ramsey, M. G. Rosengarten.

Score—Gladstone 13¼, New Haven 12½. Summary—Gladstone earned 11 goals and lost ¾ goal on 1 foul and 1 safety; total 13¼. New Haven earned 8 goals, received 5 goals by handicap and lost ½ goal on 2 safeties; total 12½.

For the second game the line-up follows:

Ranelagh—Lord Hugh Grosvenor, R. W. Grenfell, Earl of Rockavage, F. A. Gill.

Point Judith—Alexander Brown, Malcolm Stevenson, H. W. Harriman, C. R. Smith.

Score—Ranelagh 8, Point Judith 1. Summary—Ranelagh earned 8 goals; total 8, Point Judith earned 1 goal; total 1.

WISE REFORM IN NAVY FOR REPAIRS OF SHIPS.

[Metropolitan Magazine.]

Perhaps the most important saving of all in the Navy Department under the Taft administration has been accomplished by the re-organization of the fleet itself into divisions of five homogeneous ships. Out of each division there is always one ship under repair and four at sea.

Compare this with the old system and the advantages are apparent. Formerly the entire navy went to the yards twice a year. The result was that for several months in the year the nation was without a fleet. In the second place there was a great ebb and flow of labor in the navy yards which militated effectually against the employment of the best class of labor. Under the new system there is always a fleet in being, and the work at the yards, being constant, attracts the best kind of men.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE AEROPLANE INDUSTRY.

Factories in France Turning Out Machines to Full Capacity.

PARIS, Aug. 25.—The aeroplane industry has developed in France with as much activity as did the manufacture of automobiles in the infancy of the land machine and now there are in France a number of well equipped aeroplane factories turning out machines to their full capacity. A little over a year ago there were less than 100 aeroplanes in all Europe, principally in France, but statistics of constructors show that since the first cross-channel flight Bleriot has built 250 duplicates of the monoplane, with which he crossed from Calais to Dover, and Farman has manufactured at his works over 100 bi-planes. Other types bring the French production up to about 800, which have sold for something over $2,600,000.

The small Bleriot sold at first for $2,000, but after its success in crossing the channel the price was raised and the latest type now costs from $3,100 to $5,100. The catalogue prices of other important makes are: For the Farman $6,000; for the Voisin, $4,600; for the Antinotte $5,000; for the Wright, which is manufactured here under an arrangement with the inventor $5,300, and for the Sommer machine, $5,000.

An egg within an egg has been found in Rhode Island. The state is so small that they probably have to lay them that way.—[Buffalo Express.

ASKS FOR WRIT OF MANDAMUS.

Acting Mayor Jordan of Lawrence Compelled to Call Meeting.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Attorney General Dana Malone today affixed his signature to a petition to the Massachusetts Supreme Court asking for a write of mandamus to compel Acting Mayor Thomas M. Jordan of Lawrence, to call a meeting of the common council of that city in order that it may take action on going into joint convention with the board of aldermen for the purpose of electing a mayor to succeed former Mayor William P. White, who is serving a three-year sentence in jail for bribery. It was expected that the petition would be filed in the supreme court this afternoon by City Solicitor Murphy of Lawrence.

The attorney general did not sign the petition for the writ of mandamus until Acting Mayor Jordan had repeatedly declined to call a meeting of the common council at his own volition. The acting mayor explained that he is always ready to call the common council into session whenever they ask him to do so, but as the members of the council are now taking their summer vacations, he did not think he ought to disturb them except upon their own request.

After hearing the evidence in the matter, Attorney General Malone said that in his opinion, Acting Mayor Jordon ought to call a meeting of the common council and he suggested September 6 as the date, this being the day on which the next meeting of the board of aldermen will be held. Acting Mayor Jordon, however, said that he wished to be consistent in his own position and declined to issue the call. The attorney general then affixed his signature to the petition.

UPRISING AMONG NATIVES.

Increased Cost of Living Causes Restless Feeling in China.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Oppressive taxation and the greatly increased cost of living in China are the causes of a restless feeling and slight uprising among the natives throughout the whole empire, according to advices received at the headquarters of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society here. The reports come from Dr. N. Worth Brown, son of Nathan Brown, the famous pioneer missionary of Assam and Japan. Dr. Brown stated that Kuling, a large summer central China resort was crowded for a time with refugees from the province of Hunan, where life had been made unbearable for them. The uneasiness is not anti-Christian and not particularly anti-foreign, except that the blame for the increasing taxes is laid at the door of new innovations, introduced by foreigners. The official classes are more directly blamed than the foreigners for the greatly increased cost of living. There can be no prediction made of the result of the widespread dissatisfaction, states Dr. Brown, but it offers great opportunities for the spread of Christianity.

Socialist Labor Party Furnishes Bail for Russian Fugitive.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Julis Vezosal, the Russian fugitive who is awaiting extradition proceedings on the charge that he stole $50,000 from the Russian sub-treasury at Tiflis, was released today on bail of $5,000, deposited in cash in the United States Court by the Socialist Labor Party of Massachusetts, of which the fugitive is a member.

Vezosal is also known as Andrew Rutlow. It is understood that Zezosal's attorneys are preparing to resist extradition.

PAULDING'S SECOND TRIAL.

Torpedo Boat Given Water Consumption Test Making Good Speed.

BATH, Me., Aug. 25.—A second water consumption test was given the torpedo boat destroyer Paulding today as a part of her builders' acceptance trial. A second run of 12 hours was started at 5:15 A. M. but the speed today was a 25 knots an hour whereas it was 18 knots yesterday. The Paulding will return here tonight at the conclusion of the trial. The final run of four hours at full speed will be made tonight or tomorrow, weather conditions permitting.

MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED UP SOON.

ber of Commerce has begun the raising of a large relief fund. There are 150 men surrounded in the mountains between Lolo pass and St. Mary's and Major Fenn has sent three guides to pilot them out.

Conditions in the Clearwater reserve are hopeless and Major Fenn has received instructions from the forestry headquarters at Missoula to re-call all the fire fighters from the interior of the stricken region and set them to work on the outskirts of the fire zone.

The message said: "Save the lives of the men and let the timber burn."

TROOPS FOR FIRE DUTY.

Not Required at Indian Reservation Owing to Fall of Snow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Two companies of troops which were requested by Superintendent Morgan of the Flat Head Indian Reservation for fire fighting duty will not be required, owing to a fall of snow last night, according to a telegram received today at the Indian bureau.

DENSE CLOUDS OF SMOKE.

Burning Forests in the West Cause Copper Appearance of Sun.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—The dense clouds of smoke from the burning forests of Montana, Oregon and Idaho are gradually working their way eastward. Since yesterday the sky has been obscured by smoke, dirt, particles and moisture, and last evening the combination was so dark that it had the appearance of storm clouds. Today the murky conditions continued, the sun, unable to penetrate the haze, having the appearance of a copper ball.

Forecaster J. W. Smith of the United States Weather Bureau, attributes the peculiar appearance of the copper atmosphere to the drouth and moisture in the air. The drouth is responsible for the spread of forest fires in the West and in consequence, the easterly currents have carried smoke and dim particles towards the Atlantic. The moisture in the atmosphere today reached 88 per cent.

The announcement has caused no excitement.

EIGHT PASSENGERS KILLED.

Rear-End Collision Between Two East-Bound Trains Near Durand.

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 25.—In a rear-end collision between passenger trains Numbers 4 and 14, both east-bound on the Grand Trunk railway two miles east of Durand last night eight persons are known to have been killed, three were probably fatally injured and five were seriously hurt. It was reported early today that four passengers are missing.

Train No. 14 stopped to repair a defective brake, when No. 4 crashed into the sleeper on the standing train. The engine of No. 4 plowed half-way through the sleeper, crushing to death some of the sleeping passengers. The wreck of the sleeper caught fire and others of the passengers were burned or scalded. It is said there were 18 passengers on the ill-fated car.

When the forward train stopped a brakeman was sent back to signal the train behind, but the explosion of the torpedo which was placed on the track as a warning was heard too late by the engineer of the following train to stop his train. As fast as they were recovered from the ruins of the burned sleeper the bodies of the dead were taken to Durand. Some of the injured were also taken to that village and others were brought to the hospital in this city.

The dead bodies recovered during the night are two unidentified women, one about 50 years old and the other about 60 and six persons whose bodies were so badly scalded and burned as to render identification impossible.

The probably fatally injured are: Clayton A. Davis, 27, of Montreal, scalded and cut about the head and body; George Nelson, of Battle Creek, fireman of train No. 4, scalded and cut, and Bert Mitchell, of Port Huron, engineer on train No. 14, who was injured about the head.

The body of one of the two dead women may be that of Mrs. Davis, mother of Clinton A. Davis of Montreal, who was injured. Mrs. Davis was an invalid, traveling with her son and a nurse. The other woman's body that was received is said to be too large to fit the description of the nurse.

TO THE PRESIDENT ON TRIP.

Cruisers North Carolina and Tennessee to Have Outfitting.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug.—The armored cruisers North Carolina and Tennessee, now at Rockland, Maine, have been ordered to come to the local navy yard for a thorough outfitting preparatory to taking President Taft and the members of his party on a trip to Panama. The orders notying the yard officials to prepare for the overhauling of the cruisers were received from Washington today.

A COUNTER ATTRACTION.

[Lippincott's.]

It was at a ball game between Chicago and Pittsburgh. The score was tied, two men were out, a runner was on third, and Hans Wagner was at bat. The crowd was too excited to be noisy.

A sporting editor had taken his neighbor to the game. The neighbor was not a fan, but he had succumbed to the delights of "traveling on a pass," and was having a real, garrulous, good time.

At the moment when there wasn't a heart beating on the bleachers and the grandstanders were nauseated with suspense, the sporting editor's neighbor emitted this:

"Look, Jake! Look at that coke train! Did you ever see one engine pulling so many cars? I'm gonna count 'em!"

Only in recent years have we thought it desirable to protect the black bear as a game animal. It will come as a surprise to some old hunters to learn that the new law for the protection of fur-bearing animals in Alaska, passed April 21, 1910, protects the black bear from April 1 to July 31, inclusive, and furthermore protects foxes, wildcats and lynx from April 1 to September 30, inclusive. Land otter, mink, muskrat, marten, fisher and ermine are protected from April 1 to October 31, inclusive.

Next to mining, the fur industry is perhaps the most important in Alaska, hence the desirability of protecting animals which are considered vermin in parts of the United States devoted largely to agriculture. In the older states of the Union, where our upland game-birds are so relentlessly pursued by foxes, wildcats and mink, it would be a difficult matter to get protection for these animals. Yet there are sentimental persons who have read books of the nature fakirs who will soon be pointing to Alaska and clamoring for protection for the vermin of the woods.

St. Paul was a notable exception, showing a loss of a slight fraction.

LENTHAL WINS ITS FIFTH GAME.

In the Playground League indoor base ball game at the Basin Wednesday Lenthal won its fifth successive victory without a defeat, defeating Potter by a score of 8 to 7. In the ninth inning, with the score 8 to 5 against them, the Potter boys added two runs to their total and made a lively bid for another, which would have tied the score.

The standing of the teams in the league is as follows: Lenthal, 5 won, 0 lost; Potter, 3 won, 2 lost; Basin, 2 won, 3 lost; Cranston, 0 won, 5 lost.

THE STONE AGE COMPANY SALE.

Vice Chancellor Walker of New Jersey Wednesday signed an order dismissing the petition of Clarence P. Browning of New York asking for the confirmation of the sale of the Stone Age Company, which Browning recently purchased at sheriff's sale for $28,000. At the same time the Vice Chancellor issued an order allowing John A. Qualey of New York and his associates five days in which to take depositions to prove their allegation that the sale price paid by Browning was inadequate. The same period of time will be given Browning for rebuttal and a final decision will then be rendered.

LUNCHEONS AND DINNERS.

Mrs. John R. Drexel and Mrs. Clarence W. Dolan gave luncheons and Mrs. James Griswold Wentz a tea Wednesday afternoon. Dinners were given in the evening by Mrs. Henry Clews, Mrs. H. Barton Jacobs, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Mrs. Lyman C. Josephs, Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones and Mrs. Willard Brown. Mrs. Clews's dinner was followed by music and informal dancing.

Owing to illness, the Horse Show dinner to be given by Mr. R. C. Vanderbilt to the judges, exhibitors and other guests, at "Sandy Point Farm" Saturday, September 3, has been cancelled.

BAND CONCERT DATES.

Owing to the transfer of band concerts from Washington square and the change in the schedule which necessarily followed, there will be no concert this evening. Originally there would have been a concert on the Mall, but this has been transferred to Morton Park and slated for Sunday afternoon. The remaining concerts to be played by the Lincoln Band are as follows: Morton Park, Sunday, August 28; Battery Park, Tuesday, August 30; Touro Park, Thursday, September 1.

PARK LAND ACCEPTED.

Police Station Site Discussed, But No Action Taken.

The Representative Council at its special meeting Wednesday evening did some talking which was probably not wasted, since it helped clear the way for action in the future. The Council was called together to consider the offer of a number of the summer residents of the land between Wellington and West Narragansett avenues and Clinton and Marchant streets for a park. This offer was accepted.

The police station site occasioned considerable talk. Members of the committee on police station showed that they had not recommended the present location without due consideration and the challenge to name another site which would do met no response. At the same time, it was evident that the Council is not yet committed to putting the new station where the old one stands, though, as Dr. Brackett said, it may be later.

The matter of adopting the new district lines as the ward lines called forth animated talk. There was a new feeling on the part of some that action should be taken at once, and on the part of others that action should be deferred to give all members an opportunity to be present. In the midst of the talk it was found officially that there was no quorum, and so the Council adjourned to a week from Wednesday.

When Chairman Burlingame called the meeting to order and the roll had been called it was found that 87 had answered. This was not a quorum, but there were others outside and when they had come in a quorum was present. The total number checked as present was 112.

The first matter considered was the petition for the acceptance of the land off Wellington avenue for park purposes. This had already been before the Board of Aldermen and came to the Council for final action, as the vote of the Council was necessary for its acceptance.

The matter came up in the form of a petition from Lorillard Spencer, L. Q. Jones, Ellen French Vanderbilt, Natalie Bayard Brown, G. M. Hutton, the estate of A. Agassiz, H. D. Auchincloss, Henry White and Charles F. Hoffman, stating that the Board of Aldermen has laid out a new way from Wellington to West Narragansett avenue; that the petitioners have options on the land forming the remainder of the block, now owned by James Corrigan, J. F. Smith and heirs of Clark Burdick, that this was formerly called the Marchant Street dump, was tide flown and is unsightly, and with the view of improving the conditions in this neighborhood the petitioners propose to offer this land to the city for park purposes, provided the city will agree to improve it within two years.

Attorney J. Stacy Brown, representing the petitioners, explained the matter as he had done at the Board of Aldermen meeting. The land had been the old Marchant Street dump, was once tide-flown and had been nearly filled in. It is owned by the three named and the Board of Aldermen has laid out this new street through it. Now his clients wish to give the adjacent land to the city for park purposes, so that the neighborhood may be improved. While it is not in the offer, trees would also be given for the ornamentation of the park, which would form a continuation of Wellington avenue and be a benefit to the city. The options on the property expire shortly and it is necessary to have action taken so that, if the city cares to take this land, his clients may buy it and turn it over. It is thought that in two years enough earth may be placed on the land to enable grass to grow and have it changed into a parkway.

In answer to questions, he said there is one house on the land, but this will be removed by his clients. All the arrangements are complete. He could not tell just the area of the land to be conveyed.

There was no discussion. Every one had his mind made up and the resolution, accepting the offer of Mr. Brown's clients, which accompanied the petition, was passed without a dissenting vote.

The following communication was received from the Committee of Twenty:

"At a meeting of the Committee of Twenty, held on the fourteenth day of June last, the following resolution was adopted and the secretary directed to communicate to you a copy thereof.

"'Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee that the new police station for the city of Newport shall not only be of the best architecture obtainable, but that it should be placed elsewhere than in the location of the present station, so as to provide for a wider and more proper entrance into the city than now exists for the large and increasing traffic from Jamestown and the country to the westward.'"

Dr. Brackett said that in connection with this subject he had a resolution. He said that when the Committee of Twenty-five considered this matter of new police station the present site was favored, since, perhaps, there had been a change of heart, and perhaps not. There had been brought up the matter of proper approaches to Newport, a very important question. He offered a resolution calling on the committee on police station for an alternative plan as to site, etc.

Dr. Squire suggested that the entire south side of the wharf be torn out; that would make a good approach. The chairman thought Dr Brackett's motion would cover such a suggestion.

Mr. Tanner said the report of the committee on new station had been out only a few days and should be carefully considered by the Council. It was the result of months of work by the committee, and no hasty effort. The committee had considered all the sites suggested and had finally come back to "Zabriskie House," Home of the Late Mrs. Zabriskie.

DEATH OF MRS. ZABRISKIE.

Long a Summer Resident of Newport and Donor of the Memorial Church to St. John's Parish.

Mrs. Sarah Titus Zabriskie, whose serious illness had been reported some days since, died at her home, "Zabriskie House," on Rhode Island avenue, at an early hour this morning. She had been in somewhat feeble health for some time and for the past three months her condition had been much weaker than formerly. Monday her illness took a turn which gave her friends much concern and since then she had gradually failed.

Mrs. Zabriskie had been a summer resident of Newport for many years, having built her cottage on Rhode Island avenue and Catherine street during the season of 1889-90, and since then had resided in Newport much of the time. She had always taken a deep interest in the success of St. John's parish and built at her own expense the handsome church edifice which is named after her mother and is a memorial to her.

She is survived by one daughter, who was with her mother at the time of her death.

SANK IN NARROW RIVER.

Robert A. Bradley Drowned While Visiting the Trinity Parish Camp at Pettaquamscutt.

News was received Wednesday afternoon of the drowning, in Narrow River, of Robert A. Bradley, aged 15, son of Harry H. Bradley of this city. He was employed at the Newport Reading Room and having a short time off Wednesday went across the ferries to the camp of the boys of Trinity parish, which is at Pettaquamscutt, on Narrow river, in the town of North Kingstown, and about due west from the ferry landing at Saunderstown. A later message gave the information that young Bradley had been out in a boat and it is supposed that he was upset and drowned.

Immediately on receipt of the news Rev. S. C. Hughes, rector of Trinity, secured the services of Messrs. Chase and Rose of the Easton's Beach life patrol and went to Pettaquamscutt to see what could be done about recovering the body. The river was dragged, but up to the time the patrol left this morning the body had not been recovered.

The camp is one of three along the river bank, the others being for the Young Men's Christian Association boys and the Emmanuel Church boys. They have been used every summer during vacation time for a number of years, and a large number of boys have been in the camps and have enjoyed themselves on the river, and in it and about it, so that the place is thoroughly well known by all the boys who have spent vacations there. Young Bradley did not have time to go with the other boys for a long period, but like many others who were limited in time took a trip across the ferries when opportunity offered. The one he took Wednesday was an unfortunate one, and will cast a gloom on all the campers.

Young Bradley had been employed at the Postal telegraph office and was energetic and well liked by all. He was an enterprising, active worker, not afraid to take hold and do things, and will be greatly missed.

CHILD LEFT ALONE IN THE WAGON.

One of the big teams of the Adams Express Company came along Thames street this forenoon and hooked into a light trap used as an order wagon, containing a small child. The running gear of the light trap was slightly disturbed, but the child was uninjured. The street cleaner jumped to the horse's head and prevented a runaway, for the horse was not weighted, and the express driver and citizens then tried to learn from the child to whom the vehicle belonged. After some minutes the driver appeared, just as if he had taken no chances in leaving the child alone in the wagon on Thames street.

TWO BIG EXCURSIONS.

Wednesday steamer Chester W. Chapin landed 1,800 passengers from New London on the annual excursion from Springfield and places in that section. Today the City of Lowell arrived with about 1,400, on the annual excursion from the upper regions of Massachusetts and Vermont—the backwoods excursion, it is called, since it comes from the back country. Some of those who reached here at 1:30 this afternoon had been riding since long before daylight, and yet they looked pleasant when the boat tied up. The cabs and buses did a big business Wednesday and it looked like good business today.

FLEET PICTURES AT THE STAR.

New pictures at the Star Theatre are "Yankeeanna," an Imp production dealing with love and war; "A miner's Sweetheart," a love story of the mines; "Only a Hobo," a melo-dramatic offering; "Repaid With Interest," a Western Drama, and a comedy entitled "Levi and His Family at Coney Island." Mr. Mullaly and Miss Richards will introduce the illustrated songs, and as a special attraction, will be shown an interesting set of slides giving views taken during Fleet week, including the flagships of the four divisions of the big fleet.

At the Bijou the new pictures include "A Broken Symphony" or "The Heart of a Lumber Camp Fiddler," a story of life in a lumber camp of the Northwest; "Lost in the Sheldan," a picture giving a good idea of the desert and its strange life, with "The Hall-Room Boys," a comedy. The illustrated songs and duets are by Mabel Bernier and William Sansouci.

GIFT OF A SCARF PIN.

Presented by the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Boys to Retiring Physical Director Caswell.

Several weeks ago, when it was learned that Mr. Frank H. Caswell, physical director of the Young Men's Christian Association, was to leave Newport a committee was appointed from the boys' department to solicit funds and select a suitable gift for him. Wednesday evening the committee had a banquet in the Association rooms, at which Mr. Caswell was a guest.

After the spread Mr. Walter S. Langley, Jr., in behalf of the committee and the boys of the Junior, Junior Middle and Intermediate classes, presented Mr. Caswell with a handsome scarf pin, set with a moonstone and a small diamond. Mr. Langley thanked Mr. Caswell for the good he had done the boys of Newport in the past five years and expressed regret that he was to leave. Mr. Caswell accepted the gift in appreciative words, in turn thanking the boys for the spirit they had shown and the help they had been to him in his work.

Brief remarks were also made by Boys' Secretary Jackson, Mr. Robert Warren, director of the Basin playground, and Stanley Ward. The announcement was made that the members of the boys' department will give Mr. Caswell a rousing send-off when he leaves for Boston.

The committee in charge of the entertainment and presentation consisted of Walter Langley, Ben Walters, Arthur Puddington, Ira Olivea, Stanley Ward, George Sullivan and Harold Greason.

HIS LICENSE REVOKED.

State Board Assumes Enforcement of Speed Law and Punishes Chauffeur Andrews.

The State Board of Public Roads, meeting in Providence Wednesday, revoked for three months the chauffeur's license of Harry G. Andrews, on a complaint of reckless driving July 15. The defendant was crossing Bellevue avenue from Mill into Beach street and Mr. William Gammell's horse and runabout was coming up Bellevue avenue, going to a train. It contained Mr. Gammell's groom, James Murphy, and coachman, John Burke. The evidence was confined to Mr. Andrews and the two men in the other trap, for other witnesses seem to have been difficult to locate.

Mr. Andrews claimed that in coming up Mill street he was paying his principal attention to the up corner, for he could not see traffic from that direction and the truck which he was driving could readily be seen across the angle of the park. He also claims that when he saw the runabout coming down on him he swung his machine to the north and ran on the sidewalk in front of the Tompkins place. In his opinion the driver of the runabout did not accept his opportunity to swing into Beach street and his (Andrew's) machine did not run into the horse, but the horse ran into it. Nothing was broken except one of the lanterns on the machine. The horse was cut above the hoof, and while at the time this seemed a minor injury the animal was killed ten days later because of it. Mr. Andrews's opinion was that the horse inflicted the injury upon itself and that the cut did not come from striking any part of the machine.

The two occupants of the runabout said the truck was going at "a pretty fast gait" and ran into the horse. The horse was cut on the lower part, near the hoof, of the left hind leg, on the inside. They saw the truck 400 feet down Mill street and noted the fact that the chauffeur was looking at the north corner, and so supposed he was intending to turn the corner instead of crossing the street. Both men told the same story.

The members of the board questioned the two occupants of the runabout thoroughly, but only William C. Peckham took the trouble to question the defendant. Mr. Peckham endeavored to have judgment suspended for 20 days, but could not prevail upon other members of the board to do this, and they gave their decision on 15 minutes deliberation. Members of the board stated that they took the action solely on the ground that the machine was crossing another street at a speed greater than that which permitted instantaneous stopping. While this was the first complaint against Andrews, complaints are coming in constantly against the way automobilists dash across streets, and the time had come where the board must take action. They say it has been their desire not to interfere with the local police in the enforcement of the law, but from their observation they find that the Newport police ignore the fact that there is a state law for them to enforce, and so the board has come to the conclusion that it must exercise its powers in Newport, even if in so doing it is obliged to override the local police authorities.

WHAT IS GAMBLING?

Boys, Discussing the Question, Unable to Agree or to Secure Light on the Subject.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

Dear Sir: About every boy in Newport reads The News and has been interested in the Garrettson-Crowley affair. In one of Mr. Garrettson's letters he said we boys know that there is illegal gambling here. Five boys have been staying in this house, and we don't agree as to what gambling really is, and no one seems able to tell us.

In your paper we saw that a Catholic priest at Narragansett Pier said that it is not gambling unless one risks money not his own. We think that would be embezzlement and gambling.

Of course every one knows that playing games such as poker for money is gambling, but we want to know if a lottery is gambling—if a raffle is gambling. Is a fortune's wheel on Washington square unlawful, and raffling an automobile lawful?

Some of our mothers say playing marbles for keeps is gambling, but other mothers who seem about as good sell chances on articles at church fairs. Is paying to guess the name of a dog the same as taking a chance, the same as buying a lottery ticket, the same as taking ten cents' worth of a raffle, the same as gambling? It makes a fellow dizzy to zig zag back that way from a dog's name to a gamble, but it shows how our ideas are all mixed up.

There is nothing in the Bible or Ten Commandments about gambling. We are not taught what it is in church or in school, our mothers don't know, and if our fathers know they don't tell. We think perhaps only lawyers know. If we learn the different kinds of gambling perhaps when we are ministers, teachers and policemen we will get our city a better reputation.

Very truly yours,
One of the Boys.
